new branch of swindling:

Two or three days ago a female living in the western portion of the city called upon a lady residing in Rutledge-avenue, who has always taken an active interest in charitable objects, and appealed to her for assistance. The applicant appeared overwhelmed with grief, and stated that her husband, who had been a Confederate soldier, died the night previous from an attack of typhoid fever, and that she had not a dollar less for his burial. The kind-hearted hady listened to the appeal, and taking the name and residence of the unfortunate widow, fold her to go and order a conin, while she would endeavor to collect some funds for her relief. The lady immediately started on her errand of charity, and after spending most of the morning in walking through the hot sun, visiting and relating the take of distress, succeeded in raising between seventy and eighty dollars. She then visited the house of morning, and was shown into a darkened room, where the corpse of the deceased was laid out in a cofin prepared for burial. After extending the sun surrain. ohio.

Mr. W. C. Camboo, of Petersburg, Va., just returned from abroad, brought home a pair of ostriches, which he turned loose upon his lawn. The INEEX says "two interesting colored children and several piga" are missing since, and adds: "The inference is painful, but, as public journalists, we are bound to state facts as they occur, or at least as they seem."

ONE night last week three men effected an entrance to the dwelling house of Mr. Daniel Hammond, living near Smithfield, Jefferson County, Ohio, while all members of the family were absent excepting two daughters of Mr. Hammond, and gratified their brutal passions by outraging the bodies of the two young ladies. They effected entrance about 9 o'clock in the evening and did not leave till near 4 o'clock in the morning. One of the young ladies is not expected to live.

There is quite a rictous spirit among the negroes in the city to-day, which is owing chiefly to the die bandment of the Eighty-first and Eightysecond Colored infantry, who have just been paid off, and are giving themselves up to drunkenness and carousal. The city is well guarded, and no outbreak is now

of the foreign residents at Yokohama, involving the life of a young Japenese officer dealers, and that lately shipped from this port under consignment, with the expectation of its meeting with ready sale, still result in a total loss to the consignor. About one-fourth of the operatives in the Broad Top region are at present idle for want of a market. At the rest work has been resumed, and they are now sending nearly eight thousand tons to market per week.

Emigration to United States—Interesting Statistics.

From the best estimates it appears that the total emigration to the United States from the Revolution to the beginning of the Civil War, has been about five millions; the Irish have furnished one million nine hundred thousand, and the French and English about two hundred thousand each. The mainder is made up of all the nationalities of Europe from Lapland to Italy. It is now estimated that for years to come, the annual emigration from the crewded countries of Europe will exceed a quarter of a million. Supposing that each one of these millions of Europe will exceed a quarter of a million. Supposing that each one of these millions of Europe will exceed a quarter of a million. Supposing that each one of these millions of Gulars, The North has had for years the undivided help of this mighty addition to her wealth; but now, since local interests and institutions bar the way, let as hope the South will get her portion of the seldam of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as view of the social system of Japan, such as of much distinction, and a gentleman who view of the social system of Japan, such as is seldom obtained outside of the "Flowery Kingdom." They also give an example of what may very properly be termed "a strong government," one that the subjects can feel.

An extraordinary scene occurred at a During the funeral ceremonies over the body of a child of Mr. John Gaffney, the mourof a child of Mr. John Gaffney, the mour-ners and attendants were attacked by a swarm of bumble bees. The irate insects lift upon the uncovered heads and faces of those present, who were mostly all stung in a ter-rible manner. The ladies screamed, and a retreat was absolutely necessary before the ceremony was concluded. One of the ladies was confined to her bed by the injuries she received from the bees.
